DISCUSSION BULLETIN OF THE PRISONERS POLITICAL STUDY GROUP

Zero Issue

November 1994

Control Units

LET US NOT GO THROUGH LIFE BENDED UNDER THE MASSERS WHIP.

THIS IS NOT WHO WE ARE!

Welcome to the first issue of Off Our Knees, The Discussion Bulletin of a political study group network which spans across the United States.

For the past several months letters have been traded back and forth between Raze The Walls and different people who are currently caged in America's Gulags about the political philosophy of Anarchism. In order to deal with the overwhelming amount of questions and to broaden the discussion further, a proposal to form a study group was sent to numerous individuals along with an initial article about "Right Consciousness". As people responded to this initial proposal indicating they wished to participate, Raze The Walls Publishing and Distribution (RTW) then forwarded study packages back to the respondent.

In the initial proposal which has since been adopted, we stated the purpose of this group as an effort to further the individual participant political self-education. It should be clearly stated once again that this is not an attempt to form a gang or an association of individuals which has as its underpinnings any intention of threatening the institutions security interests or encourage people to engage in "criminal" behavior. Any activity which is counter to the goal of self-education will not be embraced by this informal grouping and will be publicly denounced. As such this alliance of Free World people and Prisoners will continually develop and implement a process that insures our physical / political safety, and furthers our stated educational goals.

The foundation of understanding that this project functions presently and in the future, is that Prisoners decide how it is run, who is included and how the relationship between Free World and Prisoner participants develops. No decisions are taken without the consent of the Prisoners involved. This is their project and they make all the decisions. Free World people are encouraged to participate as respondents and support people. But it is not their role to tell Prisoners how to keep the thing going. RTW is the facilitator of the project. It is their responsibility to perform all support functions including acquiring study material, collection of responses, production and distribution of the Discussion Bulletin.

THIS IS NOT A SOURCE OF FREE READING MATERIAL OR FOR PEOPLE'S ENTERTAINMENT! NEITHER DO WE WANT TO HEAR FROM FUCKING NAZIS OR RELIGIOUS ZEALOTS.

A MATTER OF DEFINITION

Let me change gears hear for a few moments and attempt in a small way to explain (in the authors own view) what do we mean by Anarchism.

By opening up Webster's New World Dictionary (Warner Books © 1990 Victoria Neufeldt editor in Chief and Andrew N. Sparks Project Editor) to page 21 it defines Anarchy as coming from the Greek words an - without and archos - leader, (without leaders). It goes on to say : the absence of government, political disorder and violence, disorder; confusion. Oh my what a horrendous thing you think upon reading this definition. But if we move a few lines up the page and look under Anarchism it states the theory that all forms of government interfere unjustly with individual liberty. Hm any thinking person would have to embrace a least a bit of sympathy with that concept. One only has to walk down the street or go and try to pay a phone bill or open up any book which details the municipal code for any major city to see the interfering hand of government. But there seems to be a contradiction between the first definition and the second, are we actually speaking of the same thing. If we agree there exists Governmental interference in our individual lives and society as a whole do we not embrace Anarchism in some small degree. But by doing so according to Webster's we would also have to embrace political disorder, confusion and that all encompassing buzzword violence. So obviously there is a major inconsistency in the Webster's definition of Anarchism. At this time let us close Webster's and investigate further what this Anarchism thing is all about and explore another possible definition.

Of all the political philosophies, Anarchism is probably one of the most misunderstood. The reason for this is that the social order which we are presently chained to encourages the Webster's version of Anarchism because it is in the best interest of the minority of the population (the ruling class) to limit our understanding and investigations to areas which maintains their control over the majority. There are many examples of people "mysteriously" disappearing, getting caged, exiled, and attacked in a myriad of ways for questioning the absolute rule of private property and the continued existence of a ruling class. Over the years Anarchism has been equated with chaos, violence, bloodshed, etc. One of the Haymarket martyrs, August Spies stated "Anarchism does not mean bloodshed; it does not mean robbery, arson, etc.. These monstrosities are the characteristic features of capitalism. Anarchism means peace and tranquillity for all." Quite a different definition than Webster's.

Who Are The Real Criminals?

I thought your article (in reference to an article written by the author and some personal correspondence) on Anarchist/Anti-Authoritarian political philosophy was very good, and after reading it I am more inclined to identify with Anarchy! Should mention though that it has always been my understanding that Anarchists considered any form of government oppressive with which I agree and therefore oppose all forms of government. I on the other hand, think that some form of government, albeit limited and somewhat socialist because I do not believe in private ownership of land and natural resources is necessary at this stage of mans evolution to protect him from himself. Otherwise Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolini types would arise, nation states would form, vie with each other for wealth and power, war would ensue, and we would be right back where we started from. Shades of Animal Farm?!

In any case I should add that I completely concur with the views expressed in your article. At first however I did not fully appreciate the symbolism of the term Gulag. After reading the article over again and thinking about it as I laid on my bunk to fall asleep, I realized just how appropriate the term is. Just as Stalin turned the Russian countryside into a colony by plundering successful entrepreneurs, dissatisfied workers, disillusioned Party members and intellectuals, so to as the United States loses grip over its colonies and big business moves its operations abroad for ever cheaper sources of labor, this government is colonizing, cannibalizing its own people for a source of preliminary capital. The C.I.A. is a major importer of illicit drugs, not only to finance black projects - projects that are deemed unlawful by Congress, such as the toppling of legitimately elected governments which are not friendly to corporate America, as in the case of Haiti during the Bush administration - but also to provide primitive accumulation in that the government strips drug dealers of their assets, "zero tolerance" and creates hundreds of thousands of drug addicts, so-called "undesirables", to fill all the prisons which will be built in accordance with the recently passed Crime Bill. And of course, these prisons will more than likely, eventually sold to private industry so that their occupants can be used as a cheap source of labor. Not to mention that the one hundred thousand new police thugs who will be equipped with innovative and expensive technology provided by the military-industrial complex as they turn their guns inward is also symptomatic of this abhorrent cannibalization..

On Religion and Politicians

I've been telling people for years that religion is nothing but a scam to take the poor's money so their church can get richer. Or their personal selves can. What gets me is that people know this and still send or give over everything they own all in the name of the Fucking church. That is why I have never gotten into religion or baptized. Its all bullshit if you ask me.

All politicians are scumbags out for themselves. You all know that just as well as I do. They'll all get there's in the future.

I like how you said (Ed. note: referring to a letter written by Michael-Seattle to the writer) how you have said about people becoming emotionally dependent on a certain group of people (church, Govt., Independent individuals, etc.) you know you are right on that part. Look at the people of this country: What do you think would happen if the Govt. told the people of this good ole

US of A that "Ok your on your own." what do you think would happen in this country? Would there be total chaos because everyone doesn't have big brother to take care of them anymore? Or do you think that the people of this country are smart enough to survive and get their shit together enough to run this country on their own? To me I think they would panic because of all the brainwashing this fucking scumbag govt. has done to the working class people and the unfortunate people who cannot work are so used to Big Brother taking care of them and all of a sudden no one is there to hold their hand, as to say. that would be the time for all the fishes in the sea to take charge and put together the Industrial Unions, all medical health care and transportation for all the people, not just the rich scumbags of this supposedly great country.

On Consciousness and Slavery

Before this rapidly wasting "mind" of mine forgets, a comment or two must be made in regards to the comments stated in your (Mike-Seattle, ed note) "Consciousness" paper over slavery and the 13th amendment.

The Texas D.O.C. reached a settlement with the federal Courts over the Ruiz v. Estelle case (look up the case in 503 F.supp) which in part, said that inmates are to be "paid" in good time instead of actual monetary compensation. In theory, this is O.K.; in reality a blatant contempt of the settlement is manifested through various manipulations. In no way do I pretend to even begin to grasp all the complex issues involved, but it pisses me off!! Listed below are just a few of the techniques involved.1.) Good time, which is pay, once lost, can NEVER restored. Of course, T.D.C.J. "looks" for ways to steal more pay. I know guys who had 1000 days taken for allowing food servers to put an extra chicken fried steak on their plates.

2.) One just doesn't get paroled when flat time & good time equal 100%. I know guys who will have over 170% of their time done.

3.) When released, inmates are intimidated into signing away all earned good time & then if parole is revoked, and it usually is, one has no previously earned good time "in the bank".

4.) If one has "aggravated" time (I do), good time does not count at all, until 1/4 of the time is served, then it is supposed to be retroactively tabulated into the scheme of things. However, the way the new parole laws have done away with the mandatory language of "Shall be released" & replaced (it) with "May be released" upon completion of required parole stipulations, our "PAY" is like a welfare check. One can be a model inmate & still do 20 flat years under the "new" laws, despite having the stipulations total 100% in 4-5 years.

While all of these & other manipulative tactics are employed, slave labor produces a healthy profit for the state in the numerous T.D.C.J. "industries", which are in direct competition to "Free World" business. Sadly, most inmates are to damn stupid to grasp the fact of this manipulation & are content with T.V. & other B.S., instead of waking up to the reality of the surroundings. Willful ignorance & conformity to T.D.C.J. "traditions" are rewarded, thus the "divisions" you speak of continues, as it does with in the "Free World." Say good night Dick; Goodnight Dick.

Mikes Response

Everyday in the Gulag basic human and civil rights are kicked into the dustbin by the authorities and their bastard snitches. Folks who refuse to even take a look at what their surroundings are (whether it be on one side of the wall or another) just fooling themselves and playing into the hands of the State. The road to freedom does not lie in furthering the agenda of this society and all its means of controls the most obvious of which is Prison. It lies in us taking a honest and hard look at what is happening around us. For those of us who are conscious we need to set an example through being standup people. We need to continue to educate ourselves to the reality that "The Emperor Wears No Clothes" and take those lessons apply them to our every day lives and share them with other people. At times this can be really tough to do and it doesn't look like we are getting any where. But the real victory is being able to get up in the morning and be able to say today I'm going to survive and be the most conscious person I can be. It is only when people see an example of our politic will they even consider that what we may be saying has some truth. Let us today be not only "Politically" conscious, but "Rights" conscious as well.

TOGETHER WE WILL EMERGE FROM THE DARKNESS

A DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVE

Most of us are only familiar with the character of the wild eyed, bomb throwing Anarchist who simply wants to tear things down. But where do these images originate from? They are birthed from the womb of Capitalism which those who benefit by the present social order tell all of us is the highest form of social development attainable. Well you may be able to sell that nonsense in Beverly Hills but you surely can't in Watts. The rich can get its foot soldiers the Cops, priests, lawyers, landlords etc. to continually propagate the lie that everything is fine; but you can't convince those of us that fact while we sit in the Gulag or standing in soup lines. As the majority group within the present social order we continually search to improve our station in life. For some that means getting a new car, a better job, assimilation, etc., etc. For others it means searching out ways in which the present can be transformed into the future which serves the needs of the majority and not the few. A social order where because of an accident of birth you are not provided with the best that society has to offer.

Under the present social order everything is a commodity to be bought and sold. Even the most basic materials which are necessary to sustain life are withheld because of the lack of a few pieces of Silver. "Why there is nothing wrong with that!" retorts the Capitalist defensively. Of course there is nothing wrong in the Capitalist opinion because they are not the ones going to bed hungry, they are not the ones dying of terminal disease, they are not the ones who sleep in bank doorways, it is us the working class who created all this wealth who suffer so miserably under their boots. "Capitalism must be abolished, Revolution for the People" mouths the Communist. Hey that sounds pretty good on the surface. I mean if you're cold and hungry you know damn good and well something has to change. Lets look, there is very little difference between Communists and Anarchists. Both are attempting to create a society where the few are not allowed to profit off the misery of the many. A future society that is based of cooperation and not competition, a society where the cards are not stacked against you because you don't have the economic resources afforded to the few. Sounds great huh! A society where the words hung and poverty have no meaning. This is a very simple explanation of the root similarities between Communism and Anarchism but for our discussion here will serve our purposes. The differences between these two counters to Capitalism manifests itself when the kernel of the idea starts to bloom. Communism has as its common understanding that what is needed to sweep Capitalism into the dustbin of history is a few people who form the vanguard of a new political party to lead the rest of us to that great socialist land. Sound kind of benign doesn't it? Ah but lets reexamine the nature of Capitalism for a moment. Capitalism is only able to exist because the majority of the members of this social order acquiesce to the few telling us what is good for us. These few are called the leaders i.e. President, Congressperson, Teacher, Parents, Cops, Wardens, Screws etc. They get to decide what is good for us and control our very lives. Are we ever consulted? Nope. Seriously when is the last time a supposed leader came to your house for example and asked if you thought a streetlight is needed on the corner? How many times did a Warden come and ask you "Why the Fuck did you spit on my employee" or even bother to explain why you can't have a used dictionary from Books To Prisoners? We now realize that the whole concept of leadership is bankrupt. The government Can't do anything for you that you can't do for yourself. Neither can the Vanguard of that great savior of a political party Communism, traditional political parties, or XYZ. It is ridiculous to propagate the idea that someone who lives ten thousand miles away from you, does not have any idea of who you are or what your needs are, will do right by you. Communism like Capitalism is based on the hierarchical principal of leadership. The only difference between the two is that one is based on Private ownership of property and the other on State ownership. so embracing Authoritarian Communism is like trading one gangster for another. guess who wins in the end.

Chaz Bufe writes in his introduction to Anarchist Society and its Practical Realization (Graham Purchase H See Sharp Press H San Francisco H 1990) "One of the most consistently and damaging criticisms of anarchists is that they lack a positive vision of the future... This is as far from the truth as a brief look at the writings of the most outstanding anarchist theorists- Rocker, Kropotkin, Malatesta, Berkman, etc. will show, but it is a damaging and enduring myth. But what is our vision of a future society? We see the present in terms of a society based on authority, coercion, and top down decision making process as such our vision of the future society which is stripped of all these trappings. A future where society exists to be provided for the needs of the individual and not the reverse. "It means in short, that for the first time in history, right, justice and equality would triumph instead of law. You see therefore that doing away with government also signifies the abolition of monopoly and of personal ownership of the means of production and distribution.

It follows that when government is abolished, wage slavery and capitalism must also go with it, because they cannot exist without the support and protection of the government." ABC of Anarchism (Alexander Berkman Freedom Press page 11)

So we now understand that the character of the wild bomb throwing Anarchist is a false deception intended to scare us away from exploring a new method of organizing society. For in the short and long run that is what we are talking about when you hear the word Anarchy and not political disorder, chaos, violence etc. If anyone or thing is violent it is the person or social order who would do anything to maintain their exalted position including murder. Onward to The Anarchist Revolution!

Stay tuned next week for another thrilling chapter as I stumble around and try to deal with the question is Anarchism -Violent? Take care speak with you soon, Mike-Seattle, WA.

RIGHTS CONSCIOUSNESS

(The only option we have)

I also agree with the Matter of consciousness article as it relates to Prisoners. Because we are against the authoritarian system doesn't mean that we cannot make use of the courts. More often than not, it's the only option we have, if we're to fight the oppressive conditions of our imprisonment. And vitally important is our recognition (as Anarchist/Anti-Authoritarian prisoners) of the Rights of everyone around us. To many times I've had problems with brothers here who so strongly oppose the system, yet belittle another prisoner because of his race, how he carries himself, or because he is queer.

We need to be able to discuss things like direct confrontation with the administration, contributing to our "free world" brothers & Sisters enlightenment through Zine articles; there's so much to talk about! One thing I'd like to get feedback on is how others deal with the gangs which hold a powerful influence within the walls.

On "Rights" Consciousness

I agree with the idea of being rights conscious. We must be and in prison we are forced to accept our rights as those defined by the powers that be. Just as you in minimum custody are. As prisoners our using grievance procedures includubg the court system is no different than outside people using whatever tools are available to them. I think we have to use whatever means are available. My experience has been that the normal procedures don't work. So I don't use them. But I can't blame anyone for trying. I am not talking about snitching. But for redress of grievance I whole-heartedly believe in Mutual Aid (solidarity). We have nothing to gain by inner-strife. In fact inner-strife only promotes apathy for our cause in observers. My belief in solidarity is what makes me want to participate in the proposed discussion bulletin. The more we know about each other, the more supportive we can be.

While I do think society is too capitalistic, I have to wonder about your (Ed note: referring to the initial article about rights consciousness) opening statement about a society where the profit motive and the rule of private property is abolished. What alternatives are there? State ownership of property would only lead to (a) more oppressive government. No property ownership would lead to territory wars between people as we sometimes see between nations now. If we didn't have property where would we live? Personally i don't see how a system of that sort would work unless we re-invent human nature itself. A good and lofty goal, true enough.

A FEW MORE ??? ON CONSCIOUSNESS AND THE FUTURE SOCIETY

A matter of Consciousness brings out a few questions. What will sustain us in the free for all. How do we get across in a free world? Is it like Cuba where everyone gets the same? In an envisioned society what will prevent the rebirth of chattel slavery? Is not using authoritarian process to mitigate our grievances like using a spiders own web against the spider. Isn't the spider immune? So is the system. How else do we go about initiating the start of an envisioned society. Will not greed cause dissension among the ranks? Who is going to lead?

ANTJUAN -Waynesburg

Prisoner Rights (An Anarchist Perspective)

Prisoners Rights, is more a question then a statement! There is several ways i as a growing Anarchist view this question and I'll put it to you as an Anarchist.

Rights for Prisoners are awarded by alleged jurists of wisdom who sit in judgement. I would say these Rights are worth nothing. But untill we as a society (Anarchist Society) come together as a true force, these piecemeal Rights are our survival. Rights not specifically mentioned by the oppressors are Rights we need to develop! We as a society must unite and edify as a true political force the social evolution, the down fall of the nation state and the future as Anarchists depend on it! Lets pull together and prepare for our future!!

"Rights" Consciousness: A Valve of Safety

In reference to "A matter of Consciousness"... I agree with the bulk of what was presented here, though I may not agree in it's entirety. Not on theoretical grounds, but on practical grounds. You pin down the commodity structure quite well in the short space that you did it in; The objective of the writing isn't clear to me though the message is. I hope that, that doesn't sound ridiculous, but I have a reasonable amount of time vested in the very thoughts that you've presented, and they can be taken in various directions depending upon the way it's approached. BUT don't mistake that as a defamation of what is said. I agree strongly with it, as did those that I shared it with.

First, try to consider that I am personally hostile to litigation, not because I agree with what is done to us, but because it reduces the ability of people to react appropriately to situations and is more a safety valve for the oppressors themselves. There's no immediate response, so it's feasibly acceptable to commit any act because it won't be responded to except in some long term, far away, time and place where the severity of the act has been minimized and nobody really is held accountable for their actions. Case in point: Pigs open 2 doors to get someone stuck; suing the pig doesn't fix the fact that you're restricted to a colostomy bag chaperon for the rest of your life.... extreme example, yes, but the point is basically the same-remedying aggressive control policies after the fact is a little late.

I agree to, though, that the use of immediate force only supports the system itself. By using force, violence, etc., it supports the idea that we're all violent anyway precisely because no one pays attention to the mitigating circumstances when they're presented. The prediction is invariably made that an inmate will react violently regardless, so when provocation elicits a violent response, it's old hat. "I told ya so," type thinking that you simply cannot get around. The worst example of that mentality is the use of the RICO act to gain control over protesters and activists as of late.

Why Libertarian?

I consider myself more libertarian because though I believe all forms of government are oppressive, I also believe that because of mans current level of consciousness some form of government is needed to keep order. I believe a socialist-democracy type of government where in all governmental officials are elected and all land as well as other natural resources are owned collectively would be an ideal government. I think it is a great crime against humanity that one man should own hundreds of oil well on thousands of square miles of land and live like a King while millions of people indigenous to that land should live in abject poverty. In any case, I think an Anti-Authoritarian utopian society is an impossibility at this stage of mans evolution. Funny how each bee strives for the common good of the hive while man, endowed with so much more intelligence, remains primarily concerned with himself, i.e. each man for himself.

Chomping At the Bit

As an Anarchist, I've been trying to teach and relate to each of the men who enter the Gulag, but a difficult problem that i've been running into is, the younger generation with their attitudes of war and violence against each other instead of fighting the Facists Government and Bastards who want to lock up society for profit and try to control people.

As a Prisoner and a Anarchists in Fascist Mormon run prison and country "Utah", myself and others are under constant attack by the screws and administration, and these Capitalists are now getting ready to lock us down even more in Maximum Security where I am housed. Last week a con got drunk and stabbed a State/Federal informant six (6) times, but did not kill the snitch, but mass punishment was induced; Lockdown the whole Unit for three (3) and a half (1/2) days, cold styrofoam trays, no hot water, no showers or anything! These fascist pigs are taking everything from us and making serious capitalist profit off us here and charging us tax on commissary goods, stamps and one that is a "Federal Crime", charging Cons' $6.00 for rent on electricity antenna and "video movies", every month on top of the $85.00 or $100.00 the charge for T.V.'s and a Panasonic AM-FM Cassette Walkman $50.00. Everything for profit and now they're talking about Rec alone for the entire Unit because of mass punishment. Guys are talking about a peaceful protest (no such thing in here), but it is not needed in here, it needs to be done in minimum security "Free World", but the Mormon Fascist Pigs are hard to do battle with. An example: I am representing myself in a Court of Law because lawyers in Utah are afraid to fight the(ir) own people and government. I go to Court in Salt Lake City, Utah, against the Warden, the Executive Director of Corrections, on October 24, 1994 at 9:00 AM, for oral arguments!!
